“ Eric.. life is not the same without you here g.. I wait for your random phone call to tell me how bored you are.. or that you want to go grab something to eat.. It's been a mere two weeks.. and I can't stop thinking of all the good times we still had to enjoy.. I hope your family is doing well.. it's a challenge when you lose someone you love and cherrish so much.. you're still here bro.. we won't ever forget about you.....

“ I was sorry to hear about the loss of your son

recently.

From what I have heard from my daughter he was a good person as well as a good student.

He was helpful and cared about others.

I hope your family will find peace in knowing that others share in your loss.

We will miss him.

“ We were in band together, but after high school, I didn't see you more than a couple of times every summer. I've recently found out how much I've really missed out on. I'm glad I knew you, though I wish I could have known you better. Rest in peace, Eric.

“ What to say buddy, we had some great times, the backpacking trip, falling in the pool, countless movie nights, and random weekends. We're going to miss you a lot. Farewell my friend, and rest in peace.

“ Though I had never officially met Eric, just hearing Debbie speak so proudly of him let me know how special he was to so many. The tributes and thoughts shared at the memorial were truly inspiring and touched my heart so very deeply. May God give you strength and courage each coming day and may He bring you comfort in knowing Eric has touched so many lives and opened our hearts with the desire to continue his legacy for others. With deepest sympathy and love,
Sharon Mabie

“ I know we didn't hang out much, and the only time I ever saw you was when i was Carrie. but none the less I'm going to miss making jokes that only people who work in a Pharmacy would understand(such nerds!). You were a beautiful person Eric, and you will live on in our all of our hearts with the lasting memories you left with us. Rest in Peace man. :)

“ I met Eric at the MRM in Austin. We sat together and introduced ourselves. From that day on, it seemed that we treasured our new friendship. I thank Eric for motivating me everyday I was in school. Eric was a great friend. I will miss our conversations and time spent together.
God Bless Eric, his family, Steph, and his friends.

“ Eric,

I'm going to miss aseodfjaigjafadfkjfd hotdog. You know what I'm talking about. I'm going to miss you coming and giving me a bear hug while I try to do my homework in my room. I'm going to miss the snow days of waking up and doing nothing but watching movies all day. I'm going to miss our trips to Chili's and our arguments over whose turn it is to pay for the queso. I'm going to miss the half pepperoni, half pepperoni and pineapple pizza from Domino's. I'm going to miss our laughs over the year old brownies in the kitchen. I'm going to miss seeing you in the seat next to me at the football games. I'm going to miss watching The OC with you on Thursday night and all our sunday shows. I'm going to miss throwing darts with you in the extra room. I'm going to miss the study trips to IHOP. I'm going to miss sitting next to you in the living room while we both prolonged studying. I'm going to miss the poker nights both in Austin and Keller. I'm going to miss telling you you can afford it because you are a pharmacist. I'm going to miss the sounds of Pharroh and Sims 2 coming from your room. I'm going to miss your quizzes on how drugs work. I'm going to miss not ever being able to do laundry because your clothes are always in there. I'm going to miss the talks about what needs to be changed in the senate and the University. I could go on forever so I'll end the list with this, most of all I'm going to miss your friendship, your kindness, and your passionate spirit. So as I always said to you when I would come in to interrupt your studying, I love you man. Rest in peace my friend.
