“ Mamaw,
I thought i had all the time in the world but i didn't. I was never there when you were in pain now your gone and im not there at all. Your loved and hated at the same time but family is still here. Sometime in the future we'll all be together and i can be there for your happiness. "Your battle is finally done, and God said well done."

“ As a child, I recall Mamma working at the State School- always in her white nurses uniform with baby pins attached to her left shoulder and Wrigleys Spearmint gum in her pocket. As a teenager and all through my adult years, I recall fondley the relationship she had with Pa.He loved to give her a hard time, she would pretend to be anoid, but I knew she loved every minute of his aggrevating and I'm sure she missed it every single day until she passed.I hadn't seen her in 12 years until this past fall. I went with my mom to see her at the nursing home.She didn't know me at first, but I gave her hell like the good ole days and by the time I left she knew just who was telling her "so long."

“ like my mom, I grew up next door to her. I will always miss the way she cooked. She was an awesome cook, I must say. She used to always make me oatmeal, cinnamon toast, goo-losh, meat loaf, etc :) I'll also always remember how sweet she made her tea. I still drink mine the same way she used to make it. She was always known for her worryin, she was always the one that was making sure everyone was doing right and keeping their life straight. This made me laugh a lot. I used to spend the night with her a lot and it makes me giggle when I think of how cold natured she was, I'd crawl into bed with her and she'd stress out because I wouldn't cover up under the "6" blankets she had on herahaha. That woman will leave a mark on everyone of her kids, grandkids and great-grandkid's lifes. I am blessed that I got to work at the nursing home she lived in for about 3 months. This gave me the chance to get to see how she was doing a lot. I will always miss you mammaw. Even though I know you're in a better place, still I'd give the world to see your face. I love you.

“ Gosh I have so many memories of my grandmother, I grew up next door to her since I was a baby. She was somewhat of a protector over me to say the least, she has always been a constant in my life and I'm gonna miss her very much :(When my mamaw died she took a piece of me with her. I love you mamaw. Rest in peace..until we meet again

“ My memories are her patience with all of us grandchildren and her ability to walk into a kitchen and cook for 30 people in a span of 1 hour.

“ Mrs. Elvington was such a loving, caring woman with lots of strength. I'll always remember her home cooking. I would love to have had some of her recipes. Rest in Peace. I know you were a Christian woman, there's no doubt of that. The last time I visited her at the nursing home was in Oct. 2008 but I don't think she ever knew who I was at that point. For the family, just cherish the memories until you see her again someday.

“ I am so sorry for your loss. Alice was a great lady that loved her family very much. She always wanted to take care of them all. She is the last one from the car wreck with my mama & 2 other State School bound working ladies. All take care & keep the memories alive.
