“ I remember you coming home in your blue overalls. I also remember riding in the back of your blue van with the 2 X 4's attached to the inside with baby food jars screwed to the underneath containing nails and screws for the carpenter jobs that you did. Praise God that you are in heaven, now.

“ I have fond memories of Mr. Melton before and after his stroke. I remember the playhouse he built in the backyard, him cutting the grass, and then walking all over the neighborhood and singing rather than talking. Prayers for the family.
