“ Jo and I had been friends since we first met in First Grade. We had different interests, but what many people didn't know about Jo was that she was highly intelligent and enjoyed witty humor and talking current events and common sense politics (so she was not intimidated by technology and engineers like myself). Jo Shannon and I were like sister and brother in many respects, and I miss her greatly --- even more so because I had lost contact with her for years and just regained friendship with her this last year. I love you Jo, and miss you always. My deepest sympathy to the Baldwin Family and to her husband Troy. Please let me know if there is anything I can do to help at this time.
