“ kelly was my true best friend and i was one of the people that were lucky to know such a wonderful girl. i'm sure that you've heard this a million times and this one is not more unique then the next but i loved her alot as my bff. what i see when i remember her was not the bad times only her smiling happy face because nobody could ever stay mad at her. now in heaven she does not stick out all along i think she was an angel on earth. right now she is home. she is always with the ones she loves. she is so special and full of joy and i think she is just spreading the joy around. she is always in my memories and those of the ones arond her. i wish everymoment i had with her i would of charished instead i think i partly took her for granted but i never regreted with her. if i could spend one more day with her i would spend it with her, hannah, and me doing whatever kelly would would want to do with us still happy and smiling together. i loved her very much and also did a lot of people so i think she is happy. i am affected so much by the joy and comfort of her life. well i will keep kelly in mind and i can nor will ever forget her

“ I didn't know Kelly, at all, and honestly I am sad that I didn't. I can't put down memories I had with her, because I didn't have any, but after seeing so many people effected by the event I know that Kelly had to have been something really special, and I am sad that I never got to know her. Rest in Peace, a lot of people love you.

“ Hi Kelly,
You've got quite a fan club. There are so many people that will always remember you from your smiling face and angelic personality. I'd like to thank you for the great(and the not-so-great) times we had. It was hard, but we made it through them all...together. I'd also like to thank you for an awesome first concert. I just want you to know that I was praying for you as soon as I could at the hospital. I regret not being able to go to your funeral, but I'll visit your grave soon. I promise. I'm so very glad that you are with your brother and protected by the gentle hands of God now. Some day, I'll join you. Not a day has passed by that I haven't thought of you. Just remember, I love you, and that will never change.

Your Friend,

“ As I did not know Kelly, the loss of any young person is a tragedy that no family, group of friends, school or community should have to go through. To Kelly's parents my God give you strength to move through the grieving process and know that she is now in a wonderful place doing wonderful things as it sounds like she did with her time here on Earth. I am praying for everyone who loves and misses Kelly. From a very concerned Smithfield parent.

“ Kelly was in my first period social studies class at SMS. She always had a smile for me first thing in the morning. From my observations at school, I know that Kelly had the sweetest group of friends of any student to have attended Smithfield. I know that they all truly and deeply loved Kelly and that she truly and deeply loved them back. Kelly lived her life at school as a witness for what she believed...not a loud brash witness, but a steady and persistent witness. The beauty of her life has touched so many people and made them happier and more hopeful. She is missed.

“ Kelly... she is like the sweetest person ive ever met. If i got to say one last thing to her it would be that she was such a great person and made a difference in every life she's touched. She had qualities of an angel. she wwas just so nice and nobody at school can ever say anything bad about her because she was so innocent. We all miss you very much Kelly!!!

“ I just wanted you to know what a blessing Kelly was to me. I loved seeing the sheer delight on her face when she would come into my room at the end of the day to get Hannah. Her joy was obvious and it blessed me to see it. She was a precious girl. God bless.

“ Kelly was an amazing girl.
Her smile lit up the room every time she walked in. I didn't know her very well, but I knew she was a good, smart, and a very nice person.
I know she is in a better place now. I remember seeing her in the hall Friday and I wish I would've said hi.
I am very sorry for the loss and you are in my prayers.

“ I am deeply sorry for your lost and your family will be in my prayers. I didn't know Kelly, besides when Megan talked about her little sister and how much she loved her. Just remember if you need anything at all you can always look to your friends and family. Never forget all the memories that you made with Kelly or how she would light up a room with her smile. Always remember she will be with you no matter where you are.
