“ I did not get to spend as much time with grandmother as I would have liked because there was always a lot of distance and financial strain. Sonja was the kindest person I have ever known. When I was little and my mother did not have money for Christmas she used to send my mother Christmas presents every year. If it was not for her I would not have had anything some years. When my first daughter, Olivia was born she collected clothing and toys and other essentials and mailed them to me. I so greatly appreciated it! I have one memory as a child of waiting for me father to pick me up (he was late) and she had me dressed like a little doll. I just remember being really sad but grandmother held me and loved me. That is just the kind of person she was. I know she is happier in heaven and a blessing to those around her. I will miss her so much and wish I could have returned even a fraction of the kindness she shared with me while she was here.
